

Introduction

The Forecasting Division of the Office of Financial Management (OFM) publishes this Supplement to Higher Education Enrollment Statistics and Projections 2001-03 Biennium.

The publication includes Washington public higher education enrollment highlights for the community and technical college system and each four-year institution. Enrollment data for two University of Washington (UW) branch campuses, one evening program, and three Washington State University (WSU) branch campuses are shown separately.

The Tri-Cities University Center became WSU - Tri-Cities in fall 1989. The Intercollegiate Center for Nursing Education (ICNE) at Spokane remains a consortium involving WSU, Eastern Washington University (EWU), and Whitworth College. ICNE enrollment was included in each participating school. Starting fall 1993, the EWU enrollment at ICNE - Spokane has been included in WSU main campus total.

All public higher education institutions participated in preparing a brief description of institutional enrollment highlights covering the following areas:

- University/College Characteristics,
- Access and Participation Rates,
- Service Level and Student Flow,
- Off-Campus Programs, and
- Special Goals and Objectives.

In this publication, the summary of annual average and fall term headcount and full-time equivalents (FTE) for both two- and four-year institutions extend back to 1970. Beginning 1993, the five Washington technical college enrollments have been included with the community college system. The county participation rate data, that show student access by geographic origin, is based upon fall 2000 for both two-year and four year enrollment statistics. The student flow data, that indicates where students come from by type of institution, begins in 1981. Other historical enrollment information, from fall 1981 through fall 2000, is shown for each four-year institution.

The last chapter includes various four-year institution current demographic, enrollment, and degree statistics. Data is organized to provide detail by individual school, main campus subtotal, branch campus subtotal, and all campus total.

A list of contact points for each public two- and four-year institution is shown in the appendix. Names, addresses, phone/fax numbers, and Internet addresses are included in the directory.
